Here are the pointers provided by thousands of committed growers, who have been protecting their plants with CleanLight instead of sprays, since 2005:

Five steps to Independence of Pesticides.

1) The reflector protects your eyes from a high harmful dosage of UV light. Nevertheless it is prudent to protect your eyes with the safety goggles that are supplied in the box.

UV is like many things in life: A little bit of UV light is healthy for people and for plants. Too much UV light is harmful for people and for plants.

So, in order to avoid the risk of damage to your eyes, you wear your goggles at all times

2) Let the bulb warm up for 60 seconds.

In the first minute, while the bulb warms up, it transmits a fluctuating dosage of UV.

High dosage means possibly damage to your plants. Low dosage means no effect.

So, after one minute the output is stable, and you can treat your plants.

3) Make sure all parts of the plant are exposed to this cleansing light for approximately 1 or 2 seconds.

This short exposure time (low dosage) is healthy for your plants.

This treatment kills young mildew, even before it is visible to the naked eye.

So, you kill mildew before it is visible, before it makes hardy spores.

4) Repeat the treatment every day, or, in severe cases, twice a day.

You repeat daily so as to kill the mildew in a young vulnerable stage. If 24 hours or more lapses, the mildew gets the chance to mature.
